THE COMICAL WORLD OF WARREN STRATFORD

Showing a keen interest in creating fun, humorous art from a young age, Warren Stratford began using whatever materials he could find to create very detailed and colorful pieces of art. He was passionate about making people smile and laugh at his work.

While still in high school, Warren received his first commission to design a character for the cover of a magazine.

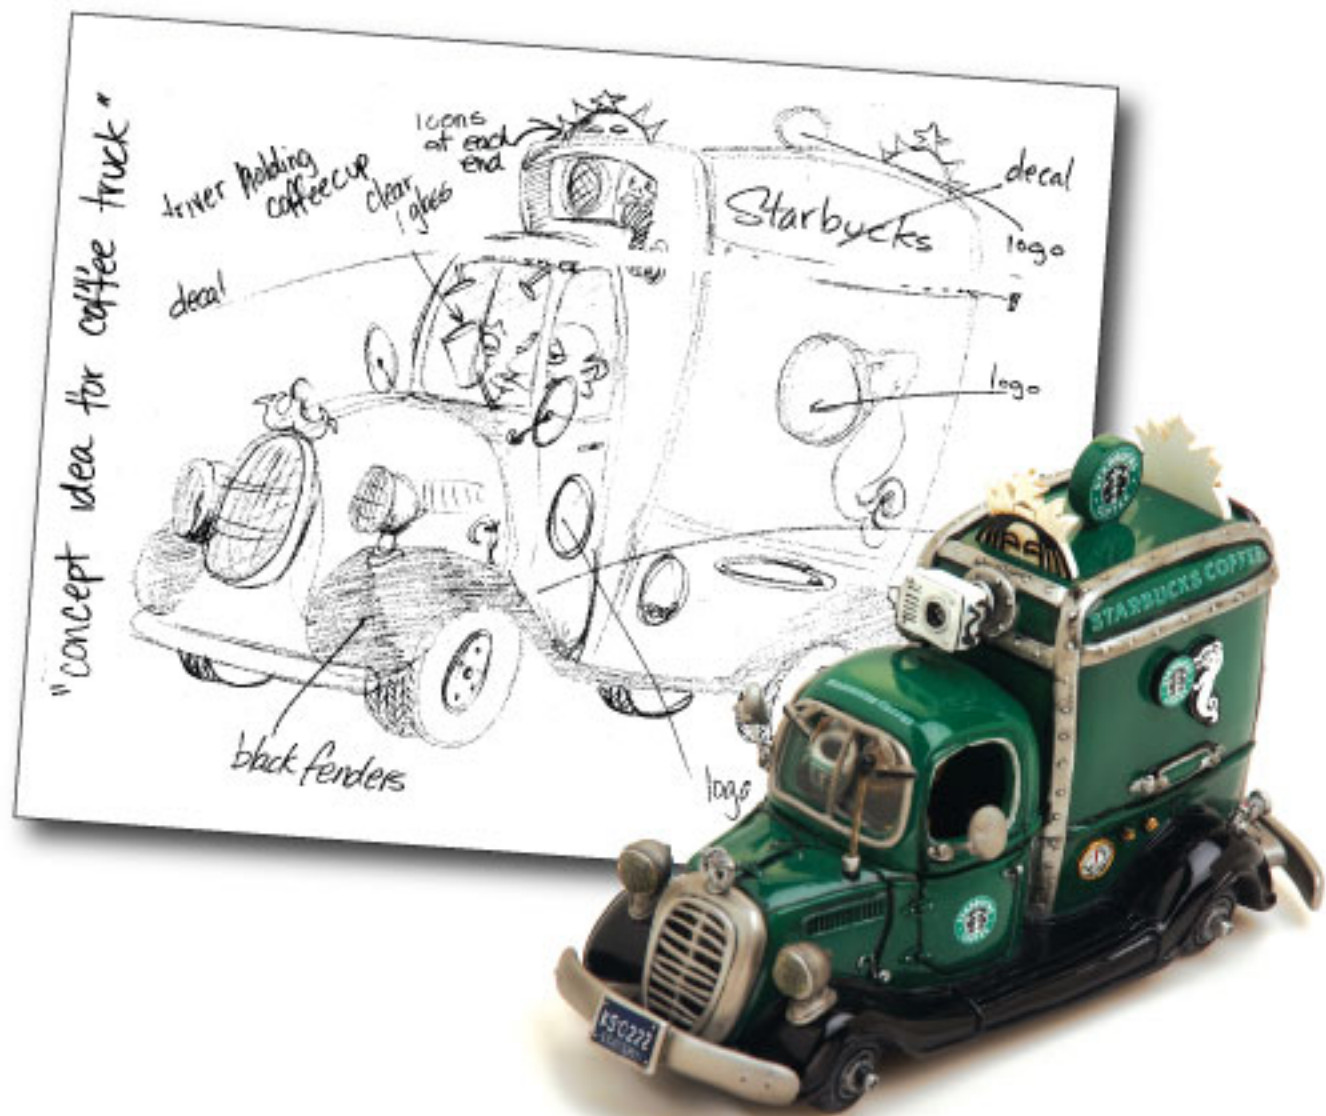

Little did he know, this would be the beginning of a long and fun career.

Without any formal training, Warren has worked as a character designer, animator, illustrator and storyboard artist.

Over the years, Warren still continued to develop and create his original style.

Warren's creations have been shown in galleries all over the world. His whimsical style has touched millions of people.
